At Philips, we are dedicated to better care – for more people, patients, and the planet. Our Trade-in program helps you to get access to the latest technology*, ensuring you stay ahead in healthcare innovation while supporting a sustainable future.

When you choose to trade in with Philips, you are not just exchanging equipment – you are partnering with a company that supports sustainable value recovery. We offer competitive Trade-in values for Philips and non-Philips systems, and we are committed to driving sustainable healthcare through responsible, circular business practices and operational excellence.

Attractive financial offers

We maximize the value recovery of your Philips system by refurbishing, recovering parts, or recycling responsibly with trusted partners. We bring this value back to you through attractive trade-in offers, ensuring excellent residual value for your system – which you can invest in your new replacement system.

Hassle-free process

When you trade in with Philips, we take care of everything – from de-installation to seamless replacement. Our processes are designed to ensure your daily imaging operations continue smoothly. This allows you to trade in and replace used systems with minimal disruption to your day-to-day activities.

Sustainable trade-in

With over 30 years of experience in circular practices supported by trade-ins, Philips is your partner for creating a circular economy in healthcare – through responsible end-of-use management of returned products, reducing waste and giving systems, components and materials a second life.

Innovation to deliver better care to more people

By choosing to replace with Philips, you take patient care to the next level. Discover our latest Philips EcoDesigned innovations with enhanced energy efficiency and improved clinical and operational performance, protected by the latest security measures.
