If required by Philips, Customer will maintain Customer's System at the required revision levels or specifications as specified by Philips. Philips reserves the right to make changes to the revisions levels from time to time and Customer agrees that such changes may require Customer to make changes to its Customer's System at its own cost. Customer is responsible for maintaining Customer's System and archive media in good working order and for following suitable system management protocols and practices. These Customer responsibilities may include, but are not limited to: checking system alerts, solving system alerts, disk and media de-fragmentation, managing system security, managing system environment, system back-up, managing master data in the system, managing the authorization rights in the system, organizing the training for new users, organizing the training for users after Upgrades, co-ordination of User support, review of User and Key User requests, and managing the communication of such requests to the software vendor.  - 2.7.2 Coordinated Remote Access. Customer may elect to provide Philips with direct VPN remote network access to the Designated Hardware, the required information and support to enable Philips to remotely provide Technical Support Services for the Licensed Software in coordination and with a Customer designated representative.  - 2.7.3 On-Site Network Access. Customer may elect to provide Philips with access to its network through on-site Services only. If this option is selected, Philips does not provide any guaranteed Service response or resolution times, as access to Customer's network will be dependent on Customer and Philips' personnel availability. If either Remote Access or Coordinated Remote Access are selected by Customer, Customer will
 - 2.7.3.1 provide Philips with a secure location at Customer's premises to store one Philips remote services network router (or a Customer-owned router acceptable to Philips at Customer's option) for connection to the equipment and to Customer's network; and

The type of Customer network access selected for each Customer Site is set out in Exhibit 1 to these Interoperability Service Terms. Customer must ensure that Philips is not required to request its accounts to be enabled each time Philips needs to connect to the Licensed Software and/or Designated Hardware so as to be able to investigate and fix Incidents. If for whatever reason VPN access is not available for a Customer who has selected either the Remote Access or Coordinated Remote Access option, then any resulting on-site activities will be billed to Customer at the then-current Philips fees. Any up-time guarantees, Resolution Time, or Response Time, will be invalidated in that case.
- 2.8 Customer Site. If Philips is providing on-site Services, Customer must ensure that Customer Site is safe and free and from any hazards, hazardous or infectious substances, and meets all applicable laws and safety standards. Philips will not be required to perform Services at a Customer Site that Philips reasonably deems to be unsafe or unsuitable and will invoice Customer its standard minimum rate for fees plus any costs it incurs (for example, travel related expenses) in attending at any Customer Site where Philips determines it cannot perform Services.
- 2.9 Anti-Virus Statement. The Designated Hardware and related software is a computer-based medical product and is, therefore, subject to attack by computer viruses. Customer shall be solely responsible to install, monitor and upgrade software required to prevent any attack by a computer virus. Any additional costs, including for software installation, incurred by Philips caused by a lack of adequate anti-virus control and/or protection from Customer, shall be invoiced to and paid by Customer to Philips.
